What Harmony Means to Me

By Amelia L 6K

What do you think harmony means? To me harmony means agreement; accord; harmonious relations. I think that it also means no war and living in peace and as one. But did you also know harmony is the sound of things that go together well — people singing in harmony are in tune with each other. Best friends should be in harmony most of the time, if they want to stay best buds! Harmony is a noun that describes an agreement, such as in feeling, sound, look, feel, or smell. For example, Harmony Day is about the way everyone is themselves with no judgment about anything. It is the way everyone is equal and unique in their own way.

Harmony in Sport

By Connor J 5B

I play for Malvern Lacrosse Team, so I am going to talk about the things that create harmony on the sport field. Remember, that even though it feels great to win, sometimes you do lose. When you lose it is good to say something positive to your team like "you did your best". Harmony in your team means that everyone feels important and works together. Everybody misses an important shot at goal sometimes, even the best players, and it is OK to be a little upset, but harmony means that you get up and try again for the good of the team. I encourage my teammates by speaking to them about moves and to cheer them on during the game. During practice we do lots of drills and everyone takes part. We practice so that we can get better and maybe get that goal next time.

It is good when your family comes to the game to support you too. When my Mum and Dad come and we don't win they always tell me "Good try, you can always get it next time". But when I do actually score or win, they are so loud! That makes me feel happy and impressed.

Inclusion

By Maya S 4R

Including people is what is satisfying

No one should feel left out nor should they be ignored

Caring for everyone is a path to success

Little by little, people are being separated by differences we can not control.

Until we do something it will change

Sentences from the past will be unforgettable, the ugly the mean

Inclusive people are the ones we should be inspired from

On the line are clear skies waiting for people to discover

Nothing can reverse time, but we can change

Harmony to me

By Tisyak B 5M

Harmony can be expressed in hundreds of different ways, each signifying the connection between one and other. To me, harmony represents the equilibrium between the various cultures, traditions and beliefs all coming together as harmony. One way to celebrate harmony is to have an open mind by exploring various traditions and celebrations people believe in globally. It would be a great way for people to talk and discuss the traditions people celebrate each day. For instance, one day people could learn about how the equinoxes represent yin and yang, with the next being the significance of colours during holi. This is my definition of harmony.

What does harmony day mean to me? Harmony Day is about celebrating our differences. Harmony day is also about spending time with family.

Classroom Harmony

By Rishan B and Anaya D 5H

Harmony is an important skill that everyone should have. It is especially helpful in the classroom. You can learn lots of things, particularly if you listen to classmates and your teachers. If you aren't in harmony with your peers you can work together to resolve problems. If you find that tricky you can ask your teacher for help, as we are still quite young and learning this skill.

Harmony in the classroom looks like when we are working together, when we are sharing ideas and listening to others. It sounds like everyone is collaborating and talking to each other. It also sounds like one person talking at a time, having polite and respectful conversations. It feels like everyone is included and their voice is heard.

Harmony in Teamwork

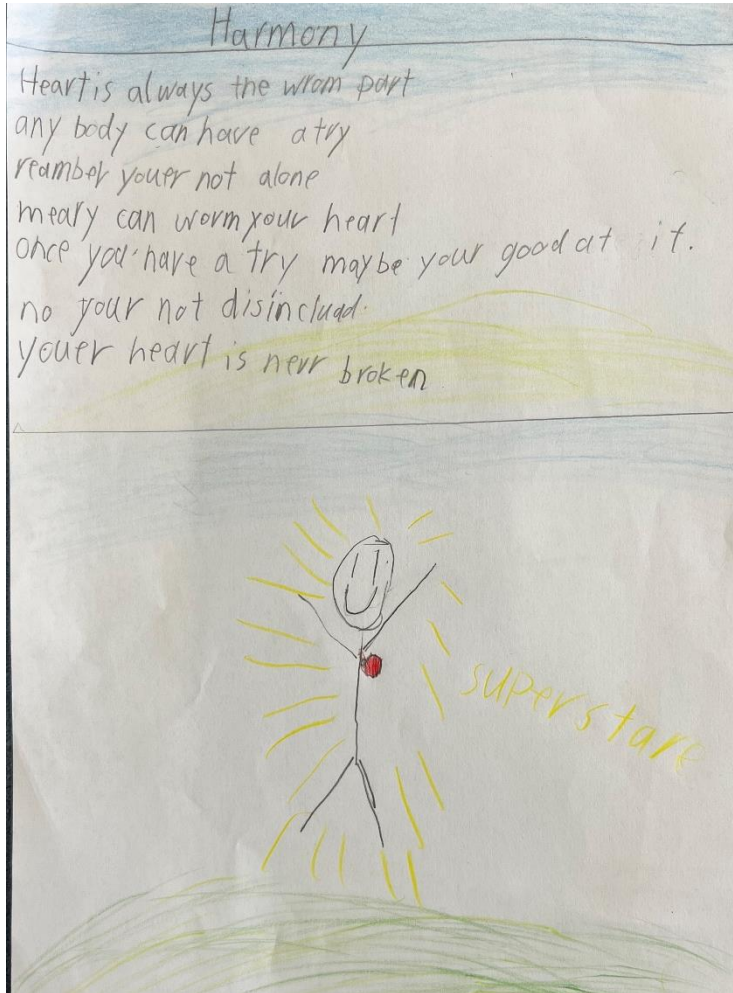

By Oliver H 6S

Why is harmony in teamwork important? Well, it's important and its a useful life skill for when you grow up and have to work with other people. Say you want to be a construction worker, a business person, teacher, astronaut or racecar driver, you NEED those skills and that's just a few of the jobs I could mention. Most sports require it and there is just no replacement for a harmonious team. In soccer, you need to communicate and pass to your teammates if you want to make it to the BIG league.

An example of harmony in teamwork is in footy teams. The players each have assigned roles whether it be back, middle ruck or front. Your job is to communicate with your team in order to score and ultimately win the game! This can be seen in both professional teams or your very own school footy teams!

Finally, how do you do it? It should be easy and you probably do it every day without realizing. You need to be kind and thoughtful when you communicate and help each other do things you can't quite tackle on your own.

Window

By Phillip P 4A

Windows can help us see the seasons over time from the inside.

In Autumn you will find leaves falling from trees.

No one can see how beautiful nature is.

Don't you just want to gaze at a window.

Odd things can become beautiful things.

Watch a window and you might find something unusual.

Harmony in Gaming

By Ethan H, Johan Q and George L 6R

Many people infer that gaming is a negative thing. But it isn't. Gaming can be full of harmony. Two player teamwork games are an effective way to improve your communication skills and practice harmony with others. Multiplayer games provide gamers with new opportunities to make friends. Gaming can present mental harmony with peaceful games like Minecraft or Animal Crossing. It can spark harmony between two clans or teams in a game. If you learn about safe gaming, and use child safe programs with parental supervision, you can actually make some good friendships. Thus, gaming actually does provide harmony.

Additionally, gaming enhances connection between different gamers. This means gaming can actually create harmony and connection.

Harmony on the Violin (Music)

By Kaiqi Z 4A

Harmony is like the glue that holds everything together in a song, making it sound full and beautiful. It's kind of like when you're making a drawing with different colors – each color adds to the overall picture, right? Well, in music, harmony is when different notes blend together to create a lovely sound.

Imagine you're at a party with friends. Each person brings something special to the group – maybe someone tells funny jokes, while another person is great at dancing. Similarly, in music, each note in harmony brings its own unique flavor to the song. When they all come together, it's like a big, happy party where everyone gets along and has a good time!

Now, think about a yummy sandwich. The melody, or main tune of the song, is like bread. But what makes a sandwich really tasty? It's the fillings, right? Harmony is like those yummy fillings – it adds layers of flavor and makes the song more interesting to listen to.

Whether you're playing music on an instrument or just listening to your favorite song, harmony is what makes it sound so good. It's like the secret ingredient that takes a song from ordinary to extraordinary! So, let's celebrate the magic of harmony in music and appreciate how it brings joy and happiness to our ears. After all, who doesn't love a good party or a delicious sandwich?
